Knowing Your Role

We believe that the key to a successful teleseminar rests with your ability as the facilitator to create a safe and comfortable learning environment for all attendees. As the facilitator, it is also your responsibility to ensure that attendees have what they need to learn. This first means that you have done the necessary preparation - you know the workshop material and you have everything ready before you deliver it.

Second, it means approaching and delivering this teleseminar from the point of view of just being you. If you don't have much experience being a facilitator, don't worry. Just follow this instructor's guide, and you will be fine. And if you do make a mistake in the delivery of this teleseminar, don't worry about it. Remind yourself that all you are doing is giving it your best. Don't be afraid to try for fear of making a mistake or getting something wrong. One thing is for certain: if you never make a mistake, you're not doing anything.

In using this instructor's guide, don't forget to incorporate your own stories and experiences into it in order to stress the points you are trying to make. Also, be sure to make your questions relevant to your audience as the more relevant the exploration, the deeper the learning. This guide is like a blueprint for building a house; it may tell you what the house is supposed to look like when it is finished, but it doesn't indicate how it should be decorated.

The artful design of this teleseminar, coupled with your personal facilitation of it, will result in a high degree of attendee satisfaction. So remember to add your own personal style to it so that it comes across as yours.

Moving Past Initial Fears

If you are an experienced teleseminar leader, you will quickly discover how professionally crafted these teleseminars are, and you will be able to execute them with ease.

If you are new at hosting teleseminars, you may be thinking, “Can I successfully pull this teleseminar off? Can I really confidently lead this teleseminar with a group of others that I cannot see? I’m not an expert; will people ask me something I don’t know?”

It is quite normal to have these concerns when confronted with having to deliver a training program. After all, most of our learning experiences have pretty much been the same - there is a teacher going on and on with a lecture about the subject, while students passively take notes.

This teleseminar is not designed like that. Instead, it has been developed based on the idea of being learner-centered. What this means is simple. You as the facilitator are not the center of attention, nor are you the sole dispenser of knowledge. In other words, learning happens as a result of your attendees being allowed to do the work of learning for themselves. You can only really learn how to swim, for example, by swimming. Yes, an instructor may be there to help, but there really is no substitute for a person just diving in with their whole mind and body and experiencing a concept for themselves. There simply is no substitute for doing. This is how this teleseminar has been designed, rather than on conventional notions of what learning is.

If you keep this in mind, then any fears that arise about whether you can do this, or how you will come across to others, should quickly fade away. Learning will happen because your participants will be far better teachers of their own learning than you. Moreover, this teleseminar has been designed this way to intentionally take the burden off of you. Remember, whatever your participants can do for themselves, discover for themselves, or talk about for themselves – they will own. As a facilitator, all you have to do is manage the learning process. With this program, you will be able to do just that.

Teleseminar Protocol

Quick Tips for Teleseminar Protocol

1. Dial in instructions and protocol - Send dial in information and teleconference instructions ahead of time so participants can be adequately prepared.
2. Ask participants to call on a land line - Ask people to call on land lines and avoid cell phones as much as possible. Cell phones tend to pick up errant signals, fight with the bridge line tones and create poor sound quality.

Tell people that if they do use a cell phone, to immediately put themselves on mute using their phone's mute function or (in most cases) a *6. When they want to speak, they can come off mute or press *6 again. Then, when they are done speaking they can go back on mute.

3. Ask participants to arrange their schedule so they can be 100% present - Ask people to try to arrange their schedules so that they focus on the teleseminar and not be distracted with other tasks. Of course this is not always possible, but the best learning will come from focused and engaged participants, especially due to the highly interactive nature of these calls.
4. Heavy breathers - On occasion you'll get a heavy breather on the line. Usually they don't realize they are doing it, so just be prepared and kindly mention that someone is breathing into the phone. Suggest that they hold the mouthpiece or telephone headset microphone a bit away from their mouth and nose, unless they are speaking. This may sound pretty silly, but when you're on a call with a heavy breather, you'll understand why it matters!
5. Avoid speaker phones - Encourage people not to use speaker phones. They tend to interfere with the sound quality. If you want to put your handset down when you are just listening, then remember to use the mute function on your phone or the *6 mute function of the bridge.

Teleseminar

Teleseminar Schedule

The following agenda is meant to be a guideline and not a hard and fast schedule to keep.

| Topic | Time Estimate |
|---|----------------------|
| Starting the Call | 5 min |
| Introductory Activity | 10 min |
| What is the Law of Attraction? Five key teachings | 15 min |
| The Law of Attraction process – three simple steps | 15 min |
| Make Offer Here | 5 min |
| Blocking the Law of Attraction from working – five things that sabotage the process | 15 min |
| Application – What do you desire? | 10 min |
| Total Time | 75 Minutes |

Step #1 – Prepare Participants for Learning

Preparing participants to learn is a critical step. This step arouses interest in participants, generates positive feelings about the learning they are about to experience, and gets them primed to learn.

Create a positive learning environment by humanizing the teleseminar, letting participants know that they will be successful, and that the learning they are about to take on will be tremendously beneficial.

The importance of getting off to a good start cannot be overstated. What you say and do in the first few minutes of the program can make all the difference in the world between a rich learning experience for participants and a frustrating expectation of what lies ahead for the next hour.

Step #2 – Content Presentation & Practice

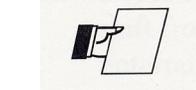

This is the part of the teleseminar where participants first encounter new knowledge.

True learning means that participants acquire a deeper understanding of a topic by pushing past the boundaries of their own awareness of the concept.

This means participants become conscious of new ideas and possibilities through their own discovery and experience of the topic. In other words, total participant involvement is necessary.

Learning is not passive; it's not an act of consumption. Instead, learning is an act of creation.

What participants think, say, and do is more important than what the facilitator thinks, says, and does. The facilitator's role is simply to initiate the learning process and then get out of the way.

Or you’ve bumped into someone you’ve recently been thinking about? Or you met your soul mate because you were at the right place at the right time. ▪ On the flip side of the coin, have you heard about people who find themselves in bad relationships over and over again, continue to get themselves in debt, or are never happy at their job? ▪ Many would argue that these happenings are just coincidences, but the Law of Attraction says they aren’t coincidences at all, but instead they are connections, and are proof of the Law of Attraction at work. ▪ Here are the five key teachings behind this mysterious law: Note: Click the PowerPoint slide to reveal each of the five teachings one at a time. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. “Like Attracts Like” – This sums up how the Law of Attraction works. The thoughts and energy that you send out will attract back to you, in one form or another, the things and experiences that match your energy. It’s that simple. As Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, “Once you make a decision, the universe conspires to make it happen.” We are constantly sending out vibrations, either positive or negative. At any given moment the universe is responding to those vibrations. This means you are always in the process of attracting something into your life. So by aligning your thoughts, words, emotions, and actions in a positive way, you can attract what you desire into your life. This is what we mean by the term living magnet. | |

|------|---|-------|
| | You are literally attracting the people, things, ideas, and circumstances that are in alignment with the energy frequency you are putting out. And the stronger and more intense your thoughts and emotions, the greater the magnetic pull. 2. “You Get What You Think About Most” – The Law of Attraction will bring you whatever you think about most, whatever occupies your dominant thoughts. Our thoughts travel through time and space at an amazing speed. Even the slightest thought sets in motion a power to produce something that corresponds with that thought. So whatever you desire and think about most often is what will likely manifest in your life. Law of Attraction is always working to produce the experiences, relationships, and things foremost in your mind, which means you could be drawing into your life both positive and negative experiences. 3. “There’s No Distinction Between Positive and Negative” – The Law of Attraction makes no distinction between whether you are attracting something positive or negative into your life. The Law of Attraction responds to whatever we think and feel, whether it be positive or negative. So if we feel excited, enthusiastic, passionate, happy, joyful, appreciative or abundant, then we are sending out positive energy and will attract back that which is positive. But the opposite can also happen. Anger will attract more anger. Jealousy will attract more jealousy. Fear will draw to itself more fear. So we must be careful not to be sending out mixed signals around what it is we want and don’t want because we’ll end up with both. 4. “See and Feel What You Desire” – With the Law of Attraction it is important that we develop a crystal-clear idea of what it is we desire. The | |

| Time | Content | Notes |
|------|--|-------|
| | clearer the desire we can hold in our minds, the better. Additionally, the Law of Attraction states that if you can imagine and desire something clearly enough, and feel the emotions attached to it, you can attract what you desire more swiftly. The Law of Attraction begins with identifying what we want to happen in our lives. Then crystallizing it and feeling the emotions associated with it will sustain and help manifest that desire. 5. “Maintain a Positive Attitude” – You must have a great deal of trust in the Law of Attraction process, and believe that you deserve to receive such blessings. This is the kind of thinking we associate with having a positive attitude. You can change your life by wiping away patterns of negative thinking, and replacing those thoughts with positive thoughts and feelings. Since the Law of Attraction says that you will attract into your life whatever you focus on, then it’s paramount that you focus on the good and positive things of life. <hr/> End of Presentation 6. After the lecture, allow participants 30 seconds to solidify their notes, and then ask for volunteers who would be willing to share which of the five key teachings they find most intriguing. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Solicit several responses. 7. Ask the following debriefing question: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ “Who would like to share a brief example of how the Law of Attraction might be at work in their lives?” | |

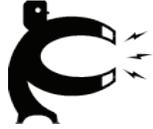

Step #3 – Course Review & Application

Reviewing what has been learned is critical for long-term retention by participants. This step is the culmination, the fulfillment, of all the learning that has gone on during the teleseminar.

Law of Attraction Homework

1. Make a Desires List

Let there be no limit. Everything you can possibly imagine desiring goes on the list. By brainstorming your desires in this way, you loosen up your thinking and allow yourself to paint a future on a much bigger canvas. When finished, read your list aloud to yourself before bed and again when you wake up.

Remember as well that emotion plays a very important part in the Law of Attraction. When you speak about your desires, infuse them with positive emotions, using those same emotions you would have when the thing you desire has been given to you. This means you will have to imagine how you will feel when you get what you have always wanted. Act as if you have already attained your desire, and then be grateful for having received it. As the Law of Attraction brings you your desires, mark them off. By seeing the Law of Attraction working, you will believe in it that much more.

Living Magnet Teleseminar emails

1st Email

Subject: <first name>, you're FAR MORE ATTRACTIVE than you realize.

Hi <firstname>,

Do you ever wonder why your plans sometimes just don't work out?

Have you ever fallen into a rut and just couldn't shake it?

Have you ever spent all day thinking about a long lost friend...and then receive an "out of the blue" email from them?

What if I told you that these are all examples of your magnetism?

You see, you have a powerful tool at your disposal that you've probably spent your entire life underutilizing.

It's called The Law of Attraction, and it's constantly at work in your life whether you realize it or not.

Every day you think about things that you want, and they "magically" appear. Unfortunately, every day you also think about things you don't want, and they, too "magically" appear too.

The Law of Attraction makes no distinction between positive or negative intentions...it simply attracts to you whatever you put your focus on. That's why it's essential to learn what it is, how powerful it can be, and perhaps most importantly...how YOU can use it to YOUR ADVANTAGE.
